A Guide to Understanding Systems of Government

Benchmarks

SS.7.C.3.2 Compare parliamentary, federal, confederal, and unitary systems of government.

First things First

PowerPoint ID

- Take out a sheet of paper
- Describe the diagrams on the following slides – you can use complete sentences or just descriptive words.

Diagramming Systems

The diagrams you just looked at were outlining three different systems of government:

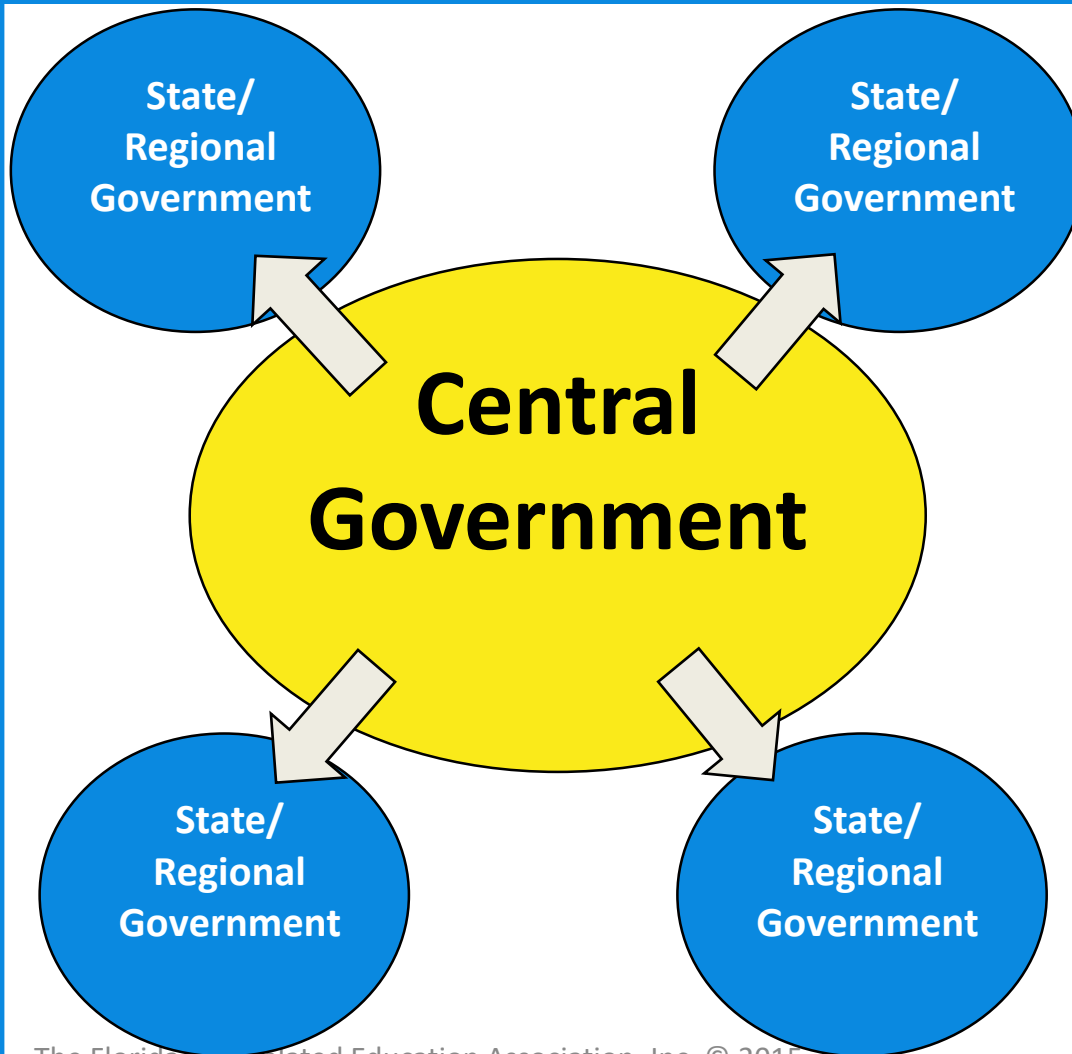

Federal

Unitary

Confederal

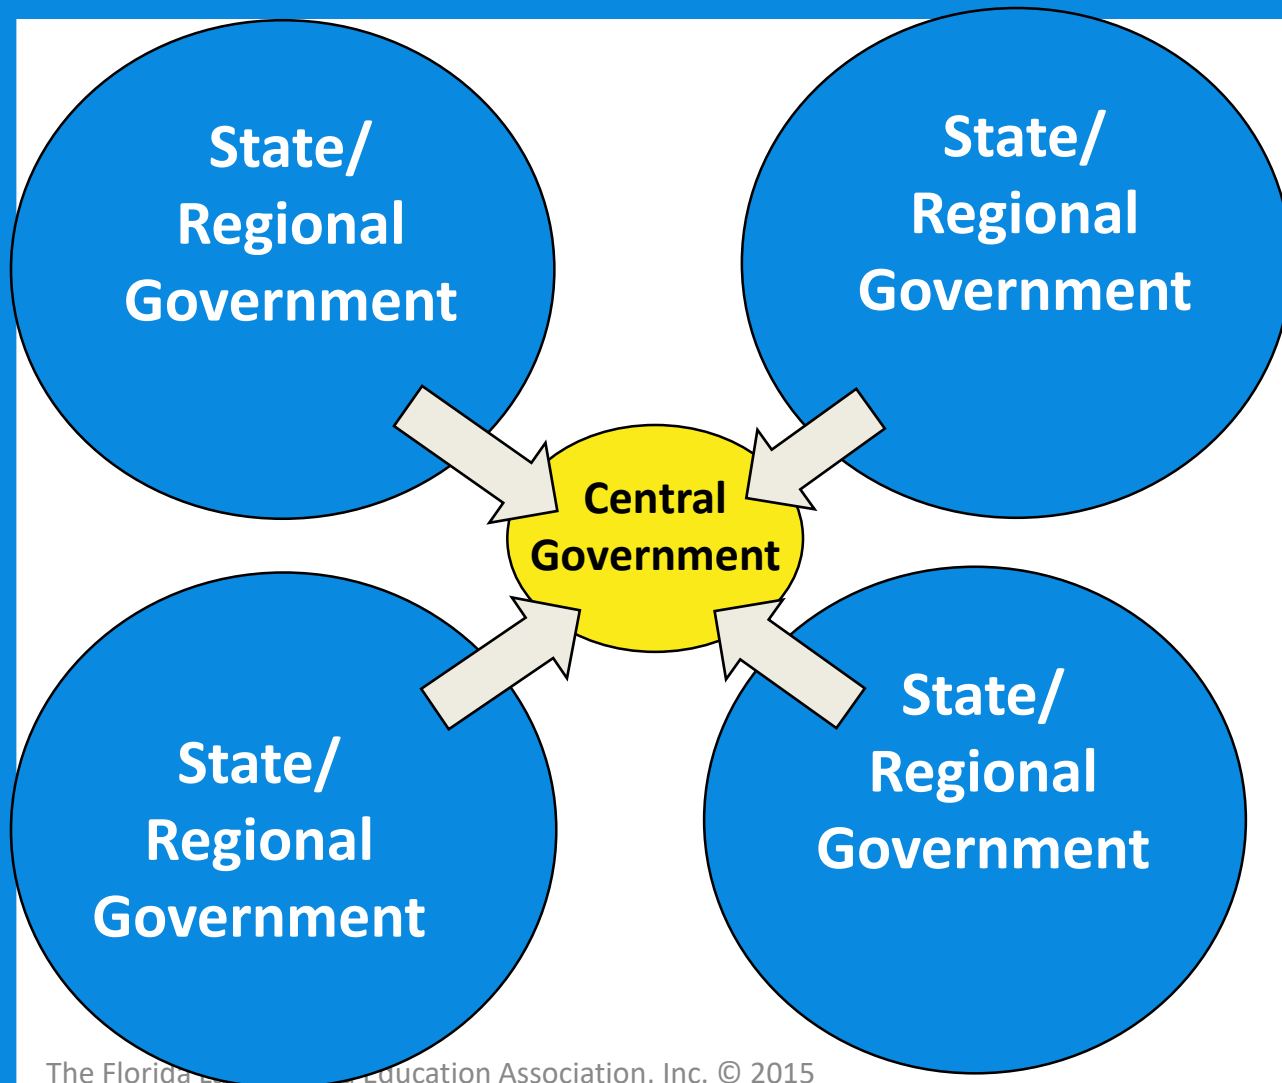

The diagrams of these systems of government show how power is distributed among the central government and state/regional governments.

Unitary System

- One central governing body
- Smaller governments only have the powers granted, or delegated, to them

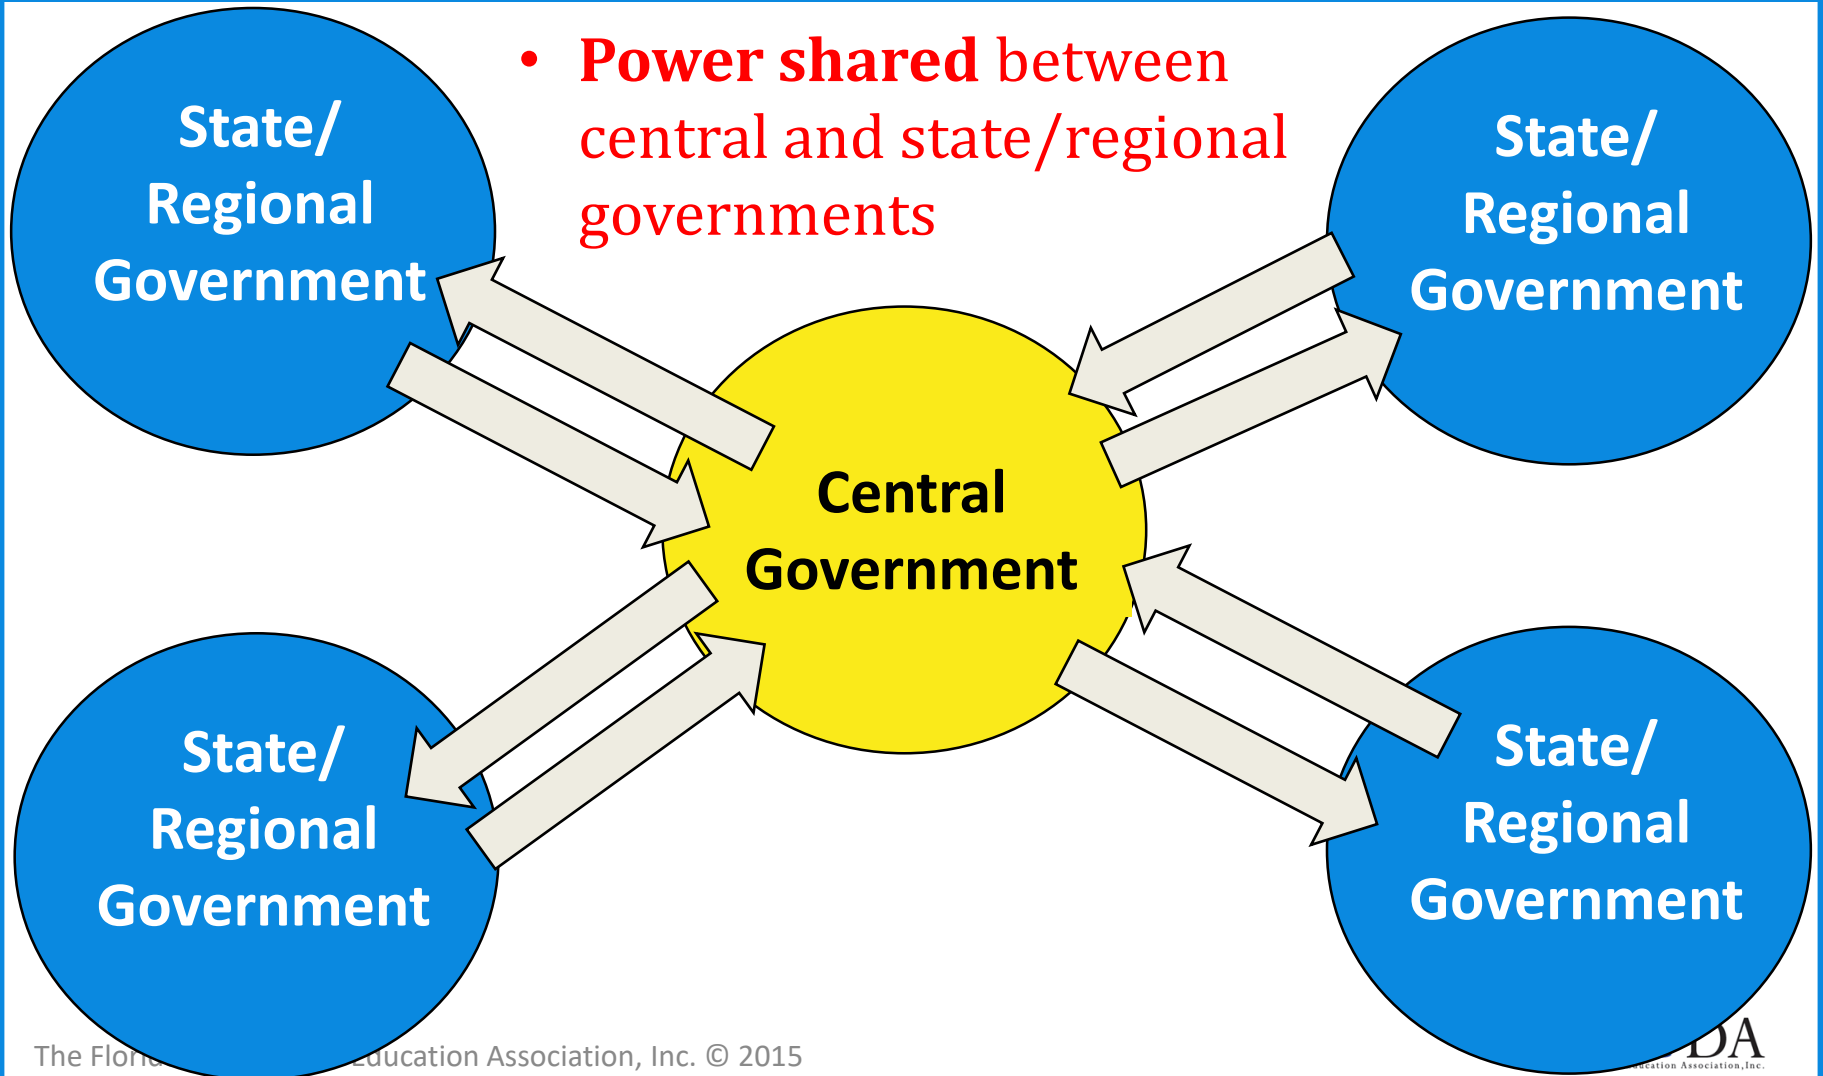

Confederal System

- State/regional governments hold the power
- Central government receives power from state/regional government

Federal System

- Power shared between central and state/regional governments

Line them up!

- These three systems of government are all about the distribution of power.
- How would you place these systems on a “power line,” from most centralized power to least centralized power?

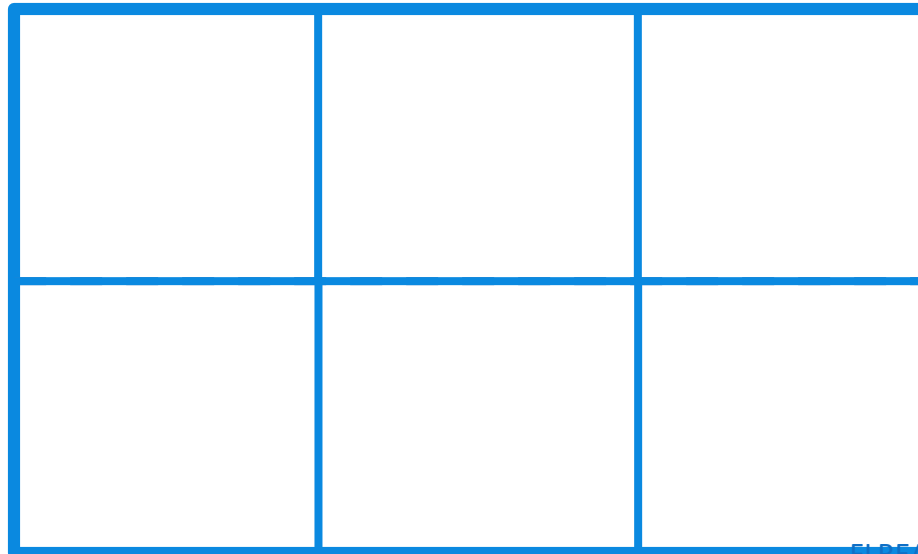

Federal

Confederal

Unitary

First of all...Foldable Notes!

- Follow these steps to make foldable notes for this lesson:
 1. Fold one sheet of paper in half, long ways (hot dog), to create a crease. Unfold paper and lie flat.
 2. Cut one side in 3 equal parts, creating flaps.
 3. When folded in half, it will look like the image below.

Label Your Foldable:

Draw a line across your foldable. On the outside write the names of the systems of government in order from most centralized to least centralized.

Most Centralized		Least Centralized

On the Inside:

Draw a diagram of each system under the appropriate flap and a written description of each system of government.

Which information completes the table?
